Self-introduction

Before I obtained my Ph. D. in Philosophy at Nanterre, I had got a Masters degree at Université Paris 8 and another one at Universidad Complutense de Madrid. While I was writing my dissertation, I started learning Chinese and exploring research possibilities in the field of Chinese philosophy. Since Oct. 2018, I'm a postdoctoral fellow at the Research Center for Cultural Chinese Subjectivity in Taiwan, where I try to develop a transcultural approach to the concept of "expression" by teaching and writing on topics as diverse as Phenomenology, the European reception of the Zhuangzi, the concept of "world" and the philosophical problem of writing in general and of Chinese characters in particular.
